

JOSEPH GARTON

ABOUT

Joseph (Joe) Garton serves as an executive producer of "The Lost Identity." He is also a professional logistics broker, investor and philanthropist, who has resided in the Tampa Bay area for six years.

Joe grew up in Huntington, West Virginia, where he studied finance and competed on the debate team at Marshall University. After receiving his degree in 2014, Joe moved to Cincinnati, Ohio to work for Total Quality Logistics. Since he was reaping early success in logistics, Joe was invited to be on the founding team of a new office in Kansas City, Missouri.

From 2016 to 2019, Joe worked tirelessly to establish a thriving TQL office in Kansas City, bringing in enterprise-level accounts and mentoring teams of young sales professionals.

In 2019, Joe moved to Tampa and quickly engaged with the local community. He joined the Sacred Heart Young Professionals Ministry, attended bible study groups, as well as other social events and activities. He also became a member of The Tampa Club, Tampa's premier private business and social club, and partnered with Tampa real estate investors in a hotel.
